PARTICIPATE

Community Service

Recommended sites/experiences

The classics program hosts an outreach lecture series for area-high schools in which faculty, graduate students, and undergraduate students view presentations on subject areas that relate to courses taught such as CLAS 220: Classical Mythology and CLAS 240: Sport and Combat in the Ancient World.

Global Learning

Options

The Classics and Italian program are currently involved in setting up an exchange program between Catello di Vibio and our institution for Latin/Greek and Art History majors and minors.

Why this is important

This will enable our students to obtain firsthand experience at sites of cultural artifacts, while learning Italian and/or Latin.

Peer Leadership

Student Organization(s)

There is a Junior Classical League Fraternity. Their faculty liaison is Professor Hunter Gardner.

Why this is important

This energizes students and gets them together to discuss and study Greek and Latin literary works in their free-time.

Internships

Professional organizations

Students are encouraged to become members of two large professional organizations: The APA and CAMWS.

Research

Why this is important

Students are continuously encouraged to write research papers with an eye to eventually presenting their work in a public forum (i.e. at APA and CAMWS conference).

The listed experiences are a sample of options for your major. See the USC Connect experiences database to search for more opportunities.
