

Bulletin Board Idea:

Print these items off, separate the tips, and add some clip art (some examples are included here). You could also create a place for your residents to list their favorite professors and how they have gotten to know them.

Professors...

You see them every week in class—
Make sure you get to know them outside of the classroom!

Why?

When you create a good impression, the professor is more likely to help you with a question or a later request.

They can help answer your questions for upcoming exams.

They can clarify points from their lecture.

They can offer career advice.

They can write letters of recommendations for jobs/ graduate school.

They can suggest clubs or organizations to consider joining.

They may have seemed boring in class but are actually fascinating people.

They could serve as a mentor or help you locate someone else who would be.

They could be a source of an on-campus job (or share a research opportunity).

How?

Introduce yourself at the end of the first class.

Drop by his/her office during posted office hours.

Send an email.

Say hello when you see him/her walking across campus.

Invite to lunch (use a FREE Out to Lunch ticket).
