PURPOSE
The University of South Carolina has an educational mission to provide active support and encouragement of spiritual and religious development among its students, faculty, and staff. The aims of higher education include growth in awareness of a variety of religious commitments and practices so that students may develop understanding of their own personal commitments, as well as respect for the commitments of others in the community. While professing no institutional preference, the university seeks to provide as much opportunity as possible for the articulation and expression of diverse, religious, and spiritual beliefs and practices.

POLICY STATEMENT
As an integral part of this support and encouragement, the administration has established a policy of mutual benefit to both the university and the denominations, religions, and other faith/spiritual groups sponsoring religious affiliates on campus. The university recognizes those persons who are properly qualified and credentialed by their respective agencies directly connected to active, registered student organizations on campus. Furthermore, it extends the privilege of campus access and the opportunity to use university facilities in accordance with university procedures and guidelines to provide religious or spiritual counsel for students, faculty, and staff.

DEFINITIONS
Student Leader: any student appointed or elected to a leadership role within their student organization (i.e. officer, committee chair, etc.).

Student Organization: a student group that maintains active status on the University of South Carolina campus, has fulfilled all responsibilities of a student organization and represents a group of students who desire to come together to support a particular view, explore common interests or accomplish identified tasks. Student organizations must be student-initiated and student-led. Two types of student organizations exist at the University of South Carolina:

Associated Student Organization (ASO): student organizations to which the University has delegated certain limited authority to perform specific tasks aligned with the University’s mission. These groups are required to maintain a University Advisor who is acting within the context of their University employment. An ASO may serve as a governing body over other RSOs.

Registered Student Organization (RSO): student organizations that are independent legal entities from the University, have no delegated authority from the university, and do not perform functions on behalf of the university. These groups are not required to maintain a University Advisor.
Advisor. The university views RSOs as private affiliations and does not endorse the mission, goals, or purpose of the organization.

University Advisor: a faculty or administrative staff member acting in an advisory capacity, as opposed to a directive relationship, to an Associated Student Organization. They are designated by the appropriate Dean, Associate Vice President, or their designee to advise the ASO on their activities and University policies and procedures. A University Advisor is not a faculty or administrative staff member who volunteers beyond the scope of their employment to serve as an advisor with a Registered Student Organization.

Registered Religious Affiliate: Religious or spiritual leaders who are associated with a university recognized spiritual or faith-based registered student organization, appointed and credentialed by their respective regional or national governing agency, approved to serve as a university affiliate annually by the Religious Affairs Committee and sponsored by the Department of Student Life. Registered Religious Affiliates are not university advisors.

Denominations, religions, and other faith/spiritual groups affiliated with a faith-based or spiritual registered student organization desiring university registered status for a religious affiliate shall submit a letter of appointment to the Vice President for Student Affairs from the hosting faith-based or spiritual registered student organization. The appointing registered student organization will be notified of the approval of its petition (or criteria unmet if the petition is not favorably recommended by the Religious Affairs Committee) by a letter from the Vice President. A copy of the letter will be sent to the University President, the convener of the Religious Affairs Committee, the religious affiliate’s liaison, and the Chair of Carolina Faith Communities. The appointing registered student organization may appeal a negative decision to the President.
