

Diana Falsetta is an associate professor in the accounting department at the University of Miami. Her primary research interest focuses on taxpayer judgment and decision making. Diana's research has been published in academic journals including The Accounting Review, Contemporary Accounting Research, and The Journal of the American Taxation Association. She has served as an associate editor at The Journal of the American Taxation Association and Behavioral Research in Accounting. She currently serves on the editorial boards of The Journal of the American Taxation Association, Behavioral Research in Accounting, and Advances in Accounting Behavioral Research. Diana teaches financial accounting, taxation, and financial reporting of income taxes across undergraduate and graduate programs. Diana received her BS in accounting and finance from Florida State University, MPA in taxation from The University of Texas at Austin, and PhD from the University of South Carolina. She is a Certified Public Accountant. Prior to joining academia, she served as a senior tax specialist for KPMG LLP.