DEPARTMENT OF EXERCISE SCIENCE

The Physical Therapy Program in the Department of Exercise Science in the Arnold School of Public Health at the University of South Carolina invites applications for a Clinical Faculty position to begin in August 2017.

Successful candidates will have a degree in physical therapy; doctoral training in physical therapy or a related field is required. The ideal candidate has teaching expertise and interest in Neuro Rehabilitation, Acute Care, Geriatrics, or Cardiopulmonary Physical Therapy. Advanced training including residency, specialty certification, fellowship, or earned research terminal degree is strongly encouraged. The successful candidate will: teach courses in area of specialization; advise physical therapy students and direct DPT student research; participate in service to the program and community, and conduct scholarship. The position is a 12 month position and rank and salary are commensurate with experience. Applicants must be eligible for PT licensure in the state of South Carolina.

The DPT program class size is small with about 30 students per cohort. More information about the DPT program can be found at www.sph.sc.edu/dpt/. The University of South Carolina is a Carnegie University of High Research Activity and of Community Engagement. Located in the capitol city of Columbia, the University is comprehensive with five Health Science colleges that include the Arnold School of Public Health, the School of Medicine, the College of Nursing, the South Carolina College of Pharmacy, and the College of Social Work. The Department of Exercise Science offers BS, MS, MPH, ATC, DPT and PhD programs, and the Department's PhD program has been ranked among the top programs of its kind in the U.S. The Department currently serves over 1200 undergraduate and 150 graduate major students.

To apply: Send letter of application, concise teaching statement, vita, and contact information for three references to: Dr. Stacy Fritz, DPT Program Director. Telephone: (803) 777-6887, E-mail: SFRITZ@mailbox.sc.edu. Applications will be reviewed as they are received, and the search will continue until the position is filled.
