DISCOVERY BUILDING
Conference Room Reservation Procedures

The Discovery building has seven conference rooms for use of the Arnold School of Public Health administration, faculty, and staff, and in support of community-based participatory research.

CONFERENCE ROOM USAGE RULES

Groups and meeting organizers are responsible to maintain the conference rooms. Your attention to the following simple guidelines will be appreciated by the next user. Groups who do not leave the room clean and orderly will lose the privilege to use our conference rooms.

The ASPH administrative staff is not responsible to change the room layout, set up the audio visual equipment, inspect the room beforehand, or clean up afterward.

- Book your conference room early. Cancel early, if necessary.
- If you need assistance with AV equipment, make arrangements at the time your reservation is booked.
- Reserve extra time before and/or after your meeting for set-up and clean up.
- Rearrange tables and chairs as needed. RETURN them to the standard room layout afterward.
- End your meeting on time to allow the next scheduled meeting to begin on time.
- Wipe down the tables and chairs, using cleaning supplies provided. Dispose of all paper and trash. If you have food in the room, this is IMPERATIVE.
- Erase the white board.
- Turn off all equipment and lights.

CHECK CONFERENCE ROOM AVAILABILITY

Before calling or emailing the administrative contact to reserve a conference room, check its availability as follows:

1. In Outlook, click on the Calendar tab on the lower left of the screen which will bring up your personal calendar.
2. On the Quick Access Toolbar, click New Appointment:
3. Click Scheduling Assistant:
4. Under All Attendees, add the conference room names (shown in chart, page 2) you’re considering. Below the displayed calendar, set the date, and beginning and ending times.
5. Outlook will search the conference room calendars and display in blue the times a room is unavailable, but will not display the details of the reservation. You cannot reserve a room through Scheduling Assistant, only check availability.
6. Close the window and click “Do Not Save Changes.”
7. When scheduling a recurring meeting, please check ALL of the dates to see if there are conflicts with previously scheduled events. If so, check the availability of other rooms for that date. Recurring events also must have a START and END date that is clearly stated. Recurring events for upcoming semesters are to be submitted 6 weeks prior to current semester’s end date.
