Contents

Series Editor’s Preface v
Acknowledgments ix

Introduction: American Religious History in Context 1
Randall J. Stephens

PART 1. THE STATE OF AMERICAN RELIGIOUS HISTORY
Religious History in the Post-Ahlstrom Era 13
James M. O’Toole

Beyond the Niebuhrs: An Interview with Robert Orsi on Recent Trends in American Religious History 19
Conducted by Randall J. Stephens

Religion in American History: An Interview with Stephen Prothero 28
Conducted by Randall J. Stephens

PART 2. JUDAISM AND CATHOLICISM: THE CHALLENGES OF ASSIMILATION
American Judaism in Historical Perspective 37
Jonathan D. Sarna

Catholicism and American Freedom 48
John T. McGreevy

The American Catholic Church and Ordered Liberty 51
Leo P. Ribuffo

Comments on Catholicism and American Freedom 56
Christopher Shannon
Response to Ribuffo and Shannon 62
John T. McGreevy

PART 3. EVANGELICALISM, PAST AND PRESENT
The Great Awakening and the Contested Origins of American
Evangelical Christianity 69
Thomas S. Kidd
Contents

Can Jonathan Edwards (and His Heirs) Be Integrated into the American History Narrative? 76
George Marsden

Comment on Marsden 84
Bruce Kuklick

Completion or Revision 87
Wilfred M. McClay

Response to McClay and Kuklick 92
George Marsden

More Than Fluff: Protestant Revivals in the 1950s 96
John G. Turner

Evangelical Churches Crossing the Ethnic Divide 101
Kathleen Garces-Foley

PART 4. THE END OF HISTORY: AMERICAN MILLENNIALISM

Apocalyptic Religious Movements in American History 109
Stephen J. Stein

The End of History; or, My Summer with Apocalyptic Christians 118
Nicholas Guyatt

PART 5. RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE AND THE LIMITS OF HISTORY

Abundant History: Marian Apparitions as Alternative Modernity 127
Robert A. Orsi

How Abundant Is “Abundant History”? 140
Thomas Kselman

Abundant History: Protestantism and Alternative Modernities 146
Jane Shaw

Further Readings 151
Contributors 157
Index 161