Athletics Advising
Paul Stoltzfus & Maria Hickman
- Athletics have 9 advisors with a 60-student case load; 3 for football; breakdown by sport
- We have a total of 560 athletes; 394 are on aid; 150 are in state and 460 are out of state.
- They function as secondary advisors and focus on practice conflicts, travel schedule conflicts, degree applicability, and meeting benchmarks
- Currently use Grades First for tutoring purposes and progress reports. In discussion with Claire and Brian about using EAB to track advisement process and to share information.
- All please feel free to reach out to the athletic advisors
- Colleges with major distribution (they use “Clustering”) – HRSM, CAS, and Public Health
- Athletes choose the major then after arriving here and proving themselves the major may change.
- They are monitoring class enrollments (“clustering”). If they see more than 19% athletes enrolled in a class, they have the student change out.
- The Registrar drops the cap on the classes until athletes have finished registration then bring the caps back up.
- Every athlete has a travel letter that the student gives to the professor, so they can say if they are missing too much to pass the class
