10.7 Policies for Awarding Credit

- 10.7 The institution publishes and implements policies for determining the amount and level of credit awarded for its courses, regardless of format or mode of delivery. These policies require oversight by persons academically qualified to make the necessary judgments. In educational programs not based on credit hours (e.g., direct assessment programs), the institution has a sound means for determining credit equivalencies.
(Policies for awarding credit) [Off-Site/On-Site Review]

Compliance

The Off-Site Reaffirmation Committee found support for the institution's case for compliance.

The institution provided substantial evidence that it publishes and implements policies for determining the amount and level of credit awarded for its courses, regardless of format, or mode of delivery, or location. These policies are grounded in the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS) definition of a credit hour. These policies require oversight by persons academically qualified to make the necessary judgments. In educational programs not based on credit hours (e.g., internships experiential learning, laboratory courses) the institution has a sound means for determining credit equivalencies by appropriate faculty and directed through the Faculty Senate Instructional Development Committee. These policies are under the oversight of qualified faculty within the unit and by Faculty Senate. Credit for courses offered exclusively for a professional degree from the College of Pharmacy, College of Medicine, and School of Law are determined by the unit's faculty and are described and examples are provided. Credit by examination for undergraduate courses may be approved by the dean or department chair for a grade of B or better.
