NOV 14 - CTE Workshop for Faculty
Meeting the Needs of International Students in the Classroom

Tuesday, 2:50 – 4:05pm

CTE: Thomas Cooper Library, Level 5

For: Faculty and Staff

Tips for assisting non-native speakers in the classroom with Dr. Sherry Warren and Ms. Renata Bobakova.

Do you wish you knew how to meet the needs of the international students in your classes without diminishing the experience of your domestic students? The international student population is rapidly increasing at USC, and with this increase comes some notable benefits to our university, our domestic students, and the overall classroom climate. These students typically have very strong motivation to succeed but very specific challenges that make classroom content more difficult to access and professor expectations more difficult to understand and meet.

In this workshop, you will learn about the difficulties that international students typically experience and tips on how to facilitate their learning. Participants will develop a plan for making their course content more accessible to international students while also enhancing learning for their domestic students. Sign up to reserve your seat.

Hosted by: The Center for Teaching Excellence and the International Accelerator Program

NOV 16 - International Inclusion Networking Event
International Inclusion Networking Event
Thursday, 7-9pm
Darla Moore School of Business Room 511
For: Students, Faculty, and Staff
The Diversity and Inclusion Council is hosting a networking event for international and U.S. students. There will be three international speakers coming to talk about their home and culture. They will discuss what it's like being an international student in the U.S. and how it differs from going to school in one's home country. Students can come to network, learn what going to school in a foreign country is like, and learn how they can make USC life better for international students here.
International and domestic students are welcome to this event, as well as faculty and staff! Come for the free snacks and stay for the conversation! RSVP at: https://www.eventbrite.com/e/international-inclusion-networking-event-tickets-39592678768
Hosted by: Moore School Diversity and Inclusion Council

NOV 17 - Global Trumpism Lecture
Global Trumpism: One Year On
Friday, 3:30pm
Gambrell 250
For: Students, Faculty, Staff, and Community Members
Six months before the election of President Donald Trump, Mark Blyth predicted the result. He did so by placing Trump’s election in global context that tracked the evolution of the global growth regime over the prior 30 years. But since Trump’s election many of the factors that supposedly drove his election have diminished in importance. In Europe in particular the rise of “Global Trumpism” seems to have been halted. But is that really the case? Blyth gives a stress test to his theory one year on and argues that the Era of Global Trumpism is far from over. Mark Blyth is an Eastman Professor of Political Economy at Brown University.
Hosted by: The Walker Institute for International and Area Studies and the Department of Political Science Research Workshop
