

Rosemary (Rosie) Perez

University of Michigan

Dr. Rosemary (Rosie) Perez is an Associate Professor in the Center for the Study of Higher and Postsecondary Education in the Marsal Family School of Education. Her scholarship focuses on undergraduate and graduate student learning, development, and success with the aim of creating more equitable and humanizing campus environments. Her research has been funded by the National Science Foundation, Spencer Foundation, Susan Thompson Buffett Foundation, and ACPA-College Student Educators International (ACPA), and has been published in venues such as Journal of College Student Development, Journal of Diversity in Higher Education, Journal of Higher Education, and The Review of Higher Education. Given her commitments, several of Dr. Perez's projects have involved research-practice partnerships.

Previously, Dr. Perez was an Assistant Professor at Iowa State University and a student affairs educator at the University of San Francisco and American University. Her teaching, research, and praxis reflect her experiences as a practitioner and her commitment to equity and inclusion. Her contributions to higher education and student affairs were recognized with a 2017 ACPA Emerging Scholars Award and 2020 Diamond Honoree Award. Dr. Perez has also been recognized for her contributions to her campus communities and received the 2016 Iowa State University Multicultural Student Affairs Faculty/Staff Change Agent Award, 2019 Iowa State University College of Human Sciences Early Achievement in Teaching Award, and 2022 University of Michigan School of Education Faculty Diversity, Inclusion, Justice, and Equity Award.
