Abstract
“Stand Up Carolina” is an interactive presentation on bystander intervention, strategies to use to intervene/help in situations, and resources. By discussing what bystander intervention is, why it’s important, and what a bystander can do, the presentation will encourage students to think about their own strategies for intervention and provide them with actions and language they could use in situations. By participating in discussions, students can reflect on their own experiences with intervention, explore strategies for intervening, learn about resources available to support them, and use scenarios to practice thinking about their actions and responses.

Presentation Learning Outcomes
As a result of this presentation, students will be able to:
- Understand the importance of bystander intervention.
- Develop strategies for intervention.
- Identify resources that can help.

Outline of Presentation
I. Barriers to bystander intervention
II. Provide information from a survey of USC students about reasons for not intervening
III. Bystander intervention video and debrief
IV. Discussion of intervention strategies
V. Activity- Case studies in groups
VI. Overview of resources available to students on and off campus
VII. Assessment