

“USC Sumter offered the classes that I need to fulfill my CCAF [Community College of the Air Force] degree at very convenient times. And since it’s a bigger college than some of the others around here, I don’t have to worry about credit transferring issues if I have to PCS [Permanent Change of Station].”

Getting Started

We've been there, done that

In order to better serve Shaw Air Force Base, USC Sumter operates a student services office in the Base Education Center for both the Air Force and the Army community. Services include information and referral for all students regarding USC system services, admissions processing, placement testing, counseling, academic advisement, course registration and tuition processing to name a few. A knowledgeable counselor with military experience can point you in the right direction and you get started.

In addition to the full schedule of day and night classes conducted on the Sumter campus, which is just 20 minutes from the base, USC Sumter also offers five eight-week semesters on Shaw AFB.

Palmetto College

Palmetto College brings together the resources of the entire USC system to combine the quality of a USC degree with the flexibility of online learning. Students who have earned at least 60 hours of college credit can pursue a range of baccalaureate degrees without having to relocate to a USC campus.

This collaborative effort pulls together the resources of USC system's four associate degree-granting institutions in Lancaster, Salkehatchie, Sumter and Union and the existing and new online and distance learning baccalaureate programs offered through USC's baccalaureate institutions in Aiken, Beaufort, Upstate and the flagship campus in Columbia through its Extended University program. Initial degree offerings include business, education, nursing, human services and criminal justice.

The Base Education Center is conveniently located on Shaw Drive. USC Sumter has a knowledgeable representative on staff ready to help you today.
