The fire within.

The relentless passion inside that births the leaders of tomorrow. The one deepest desire that controls all actions and emotions.

The fire within.

Everybody's fire is a little different. For some, it's the feeling of joy they have every time they step out onto a stage, the lights beating down on their face; feeding off of the energy from the massive audience. It's the crack of a baseball bat and the roar of a stadium in response. It's the big dreams, and the little ones too. It's the ambitious academic, arguing and fighting for a one-point difference in her test grade. It's the longing to travel and explore the depths of the world waiting around the corner.

Every single one of us has the fire kindling inside, waiting for the spark to turn into a bright flame. Within these pages, we explore the inferno that lies within each student, each program, our school...
