PROCEDURES

- A. The university shall calculate an allowance of non-collectability for any revenues for which uncertainty exists about future collections. All institutions or University departments are required to allow for the non-collectability of revenues when the receivables exceed $20,000. This is accomplished by submitting to the Associate Vice President and University Bursar an Allowance for Doubtful Accounts (contra account to Accounts Receivable) and expensing the allowance (contra account to Revenue).

Examples of these include but are not limited to:

- Student Accounts Receivable
- Student Loans Receivable
- Housing Receivable
- Parking Receivable
- Health Services Receivable

- B. The Allowance amount will be 100% of the 180-day balance on June 30 of the previous fiscal year. The Allowance will be submitted via Post Close Journal Entry in July by the Bursar's Office on behalf of each billing campus and department.
- C. A mid-year review of the Allowance will occur each year by December 15 to determine the accuracy of the estimate by the billing campus or department. Adjustments to the allowance should be made if material differences are noted.
- D. Account write-offs and increases to the allowance are recorded in the department or campus recording the revenue. All recommendations for adjustments must be submitted to the University Bursar by December 15 after a mid-year review. A review of uncollectible accounts must be considered during the annual budget process, and all budgetary adjustments should be completed prior to the submission of all write-offs.
- E. All uncollectible accounts will be written off once they exceed a minimum of six (6) months with no productive activity on the account.. The calendar for write offs, as well as any other instructions, will be communicated by the Bursar's Office to all University departments and campuses.
- F. Sponsored receivables will be transferred to the student account if the sponsor fails to pay any invoiced charges.
- G. The annual deadline for posting all write-offs is June 30. Write-offs will not be processed for the current fiscal year after the June 30 deadline.
