

Teaching Social Justice Seminar

for faculty and graduate students working with social justice content in their courses.

Please join us to honor the legacy of Dr. Drucilla Barker.

Teaching is complicated by the times in which we live and we may feel as if we are juggling misinformation students bring or public censure for class content. Graduate students especially may feel stressed by concerns about future jobs.

The panel's presentations will be followed by conversation with the participants, aiming to build networks through sharing information and strategies for best teaching practices.

This seminar is free and open to USC faculty and graduate students, BUT YOU MUST REGISTER TO ATTEND at bit.ly/wgst\_social\_justice

Moderator

Dr. Mylene Culbreath
Vice Dean for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

Panel

Dr. Carol Harrison
Professor of History

Dr. Stephanie Mitchem
Professor of Religious Studies and Women's and Gender Studies and Chair of WGST

Dr. Caroline Nagel
Professor of Geography

Dr. Todd Shaw
Associate Professor of Political Science and African American Studies

Join us

Monday, February 6, 2023

5:00 PM - 7:00 PM

Register to receive event location

Women's and Gender Studies
College of Arts and Sciences

Walker Institute
College of Arts and Sciences