QUEER TIMES, QUEER LIVES
What is “queer time”? How do queer life stories—fictional and nonfictional—fit, resist, exceed, ignore, or queer cultural norms? How have LGBTQ people represented queer lives in relation to time, especially in relation to cultural expectations of marriage and reproduction? In this course, we will explore queer life stories across genres (fiction, nonfiction, film, popular culture), thinking through queer scholar J. Halberstam’s claim that queerness can open up new life narratives that are characterized by “strange temporalities” and “eccentric life schedules.” How do you tell a queer life story queerly? We will examine how and why these stories are told—exploring not just the story but the structure of the story. Starting with Audre Lorde’s biomythography Zami and Cooper Lee Bombardiers trans memoir Pass with Care, we will examine a range of texts—from Matias Viegner’s memoir in Facebook posts, 2500 Random Things About Me Too, to Todrick Hall’s series of Oz-themed music videos in Straight Outta Oz—as well as novels by Emma Donoghue, Jim Grimsley, and Jeanette Winterson, and selected films. There will be no exams. Grades will be based on response papers, an analysis paper, and a creative final project.

SEX AND GENDER

Critical ways of thinking about sex and gender as social processes in everyday lives. Topics include how sex and gender shape and affect the experiences of women, men, girls, boys, and individuals who live in the spaces in-between (those who are intersex or transgender) across a wide range of social institutions (family, work, education, politics, etc.). This is an asynchronous, fully online, distributed learning course. Sociology is a social science seeking to better understand how individuals, groups, social systems/structures, and cultures shape (and are shaped by) one another. In this course, we will use a sociological lens to focus on the topics of sex and gender. While our focus will be on sex and gender, we will also study how other identities influence and affect gendered identities and experiences. A primary goal of this course is to introduce you to the perspectives and empirical findings on sex and gender in sociology, as well as to apply this empirical evidence to real-world experiences. Of critical importance is the goal of cultivating your skills for analyzing the social situations and events that you encounter in your everyday lives. Throughout this course, emphasis will be placed on developing critical and integrative ways of thinking about sex and gender as social processes in our everyday lives. This is not a course exclusively about women and women’s experiences. In this course, we will consider how sex and gender shape and affect the experiences of women, men, girls, boys, and individuals who live in the spaces in-between these categories (e.g., those who are intersex, transgender, transsexual, etc.)

ADOLESCENT MENTORING
This course will be divided into two sections:
Part I: The first five weeks of the semester will be spent preparing you to provide quality service to at-risk youth. Classes during the training portion of the course will focus on training you in effective methods of intervention with at-risk adolescents. Topics include the characteristics and circumstances of adolescents that place them at risk, how theory informs potential approaches for improving the well-being of at-risk youth, working effectively with your mentee, the development of cultural humility, principles of responsible mentoring, and mentoring special populations of youth (e.g., academically at-risk students, youth in trouble with the law, youth with mental health needs). During this portion of the class, weekly quizzes and thought papers will be utilized to confirm your understanding of the course material.

Part II: Toward the end of the training portion of the class, you will be matched with student(s) from New Bridge Academy, and Thursday classes will begin meeting at New Bridge Academy. Once the training has been completed, class begins to be solely based on mentoring and case responsibilities.
