1. Call to Order and Approval of Agenda (Nikki Wooten, Chair)

   The agenda was unanimously approved.

2. Approval of the Minutes from November 22, 2021. Approved actions by Graduate Council become effective 30 days after posting. A copy is available on the Graduate School website at: http://app.gradschool.sc.edu/gradcouncil/minutes.asp.
   The minutes from November were unanimously approved.

3. Report of the Chair (Nikki Wooten)
   Dr. Wooten thanked everyone for their service to our graduate students during the Fall semester.

4. Report of the Interim Dean of the Graduate School (Tracey Weldon)
   No report.

5. Report of the Secretary of the Graduate Council (Murray Mitchell)
   Dr. Mitchell reminded all participants that the meeting was being recorded; their continued participation represented their consent to be recorded.
Dr. Mitchell encouraged/reminded colleagues to submit grades for every student in every class, every semester—just to avoid confusion, that includes the current semester. Encourage your colleagues to submit grades for every student on every roster in Self Service Carolina—preferably BEFORE they shut down their computers for the break. For what it is worth, there is a procedure in place for addressing incompletes—situations beyond the control of the student. No student should appear on a roster without a grade, for ANY reason. If you come across a colleague with a question, please encourage them to reach out for help to their graduate director, chair, registrar, or him.

For incompletes, there is a form that allows you to identify a backup grade meaning the grade that the student has earned up until this point in the semester. The maximum period allowable for an incomplete is up to one year. You can do less than one year, but he strongly encourages you to use less than one year because this is the kind of thing that rolls over and accumulates on top of a batch of classes and responsibilities for the next semester. Please remember that the incomplete is to be used when it is beyond something that the student could control. For example, a professor has retired, resigned, or otherwise left a position and they were going to be supervising the student. Perhaps there was funding that hasn’t come through as was promised and that has delayed some sort of data collection or analysis, or if they are in some sort of placement and were unable to get to the placement because of COVID related restrictions. All those kinds of things are clearly beyond the control of the student and are bona fide explanations for an incomplete grade. For a student to say that it has taken longer to write a paper than was anticipated is not an explanation beyond the control of the student. They should get the grade that they have earned or encourage them to turn in whatever they have done to this point in time. Allowing a student to retake a class the next semester is not an appropriate use of an incomplete. If you have a student that you haven’t seen all semester, there is a grade mode that identifies an F that indicates they haven’t attended which will stand unless they submit some sort of explanation as to why they didn’t drop the course in a timely manner.

6. Report of the Interim Associate Dean for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion, and Associate Director, Grace Jordan McFadden Professors Program (Toby Jenkins)

Dr. Jenkins announced that Dr. Weldon, Dr. Angelina Sylvain, Kesha Clavon, and herself hosted an information session that many members of the Graduate Council attended for the Rising Star Fellowship program that was recorded last week. The recording is in Teams. Ms. Clavon is your point of contact for more information on that fellowship. The website and that video provides a lot of the clarity that you might continue to need as you look for students to nominate. The following is the link to the information session if anyone missed it and would like to go back and view that video to get more information on it:

Dr. Jenkins recently sent out an updated web location for the Department of Student Life she received regarding the new Interfaith Calendar that has come out. She has been sending out email reminders as Holy Days and holidays approach. The following is the link to the Interfaith calendar:
7. Report on Professional Development (Wright Culpepper)

Wright reported that he and his group are anticipating a launch of the Graduate Student Resources Hub in January. Signage will go up this week. It is his understanding that our colleagues from the National Fellowships and Scholarships Programming Office and the Career Center will be moving in at some point this week. We hope to have some representatives from Campus Partners in that facility very soon and are anxiously anticipating adding a couple of new staff members as well as from other offices at some point in the next academic year potentially.

They are working to put together their calendar of events for Spring 2022. As always is the case, Discover UofSC will be at the end of April. A lot of programming will center around preparing graduate students to participate in presenting at that event and they will have more details soon. Hopefully, a calendar will be published on our website and be sent out to all students and faculty before the Christmas break. Things are moving along and thank you for your cooperation. If anyone has any suggestions on programming, he looks forward to hearing them.

8. Report of the Graduate Student Association (Maggie Carson)

Maggie disclosed that GSA continues to partner with Student Government in the Swipe Out Hunger Campaign to help promote the program to graduate students. It is a program that takes leftover meal swipes on meal cards and Aramark donates those back to students. Both undergraduate and graduate students can apply for this benefit. This is a very good program to promote to graduate students considering some of the lower stipends in some cases. She herself has benefitted from this program and would appreciate everyone encouraging their students to apply if there is a need. It is free and applications are anonymously reviewed. The application for Spring 2022 is available at the following link:

https://sc.edu/about/offices_and_divisions/leadership_and_service_center/about/forms/swipe-out-hunger.php

Maggie revealed that she has met briefly with Interim Provost Stephen Cutler regarding some concerns that she and several graduate assistants have. Now that the health insurance is being subsidized by the University, some faculty and principal investigators and are cutting back on the number of research assistants they are willing to fund and are basically blaming the students for the additional costs associated with covering the health insurance. Some faculty are even telling students that they will be lucky if they even receive a GA now because of the health insurance costs associated with the hires. On the other hand, the University is saying that we need to bring in more PhD students, but it seems that we can’t afford the ones that we already have. All of this really doesn’t make sense. Is there any way that we can talk to these people about not putting this kind of pressure on the students and ask them to stop blaming the students for needing that health insurance?

There was much discussion about this topic, and the consensus was very much in support of the graduate assistants and PhD student total health insurance coverage. Dr. Mitchell commented that while he and the other members of the Graduate Council are in total support and would be happy to reinforce Maggie and the other graduate assistant hires, this is not something within the realm of any responsibility or authority of the Graduate Council or the Graduate School. The message has already been sent to the Interim Provost Cutler for assistance.

Maggie presented another major concern about the lack of parking. Some students have reported that when they come to work on the weekend or perhaps during the day and in the evening, they have no place to park if there is a large event at the Koger Center or at any other venue that we have on campus. Is there any kind of communication method that either exists or could exist to send notifications to graduate students to inform them that parking is going to be taken away on these days; so, they can either go study somewhere or go to their labs or offices because they have taken the graduate student parking lot for something else. Proper notification to the students that there will be no parking available on a particular day will help students plan their day. They can either plan to work from home if that is an option or try to park somewhere else on campus. Sometimes students who live in Irmo or Lexington drive all the way here to campus to find nowhere to park.

Dr. Mitchell suggested that we can reach out to Parking to find out where their distribution emails go to ensure that the broadcast is broader, but it will require that students read their emails.

   No report.

10. Report of the 500/600 Level Courses (Murray Mitchell)

She asked that everyone please let their graduate directors know to be on the lookout for an email from Wright Culpepper in January that will officially kick off the announcement for Presidential Fellows and all other graduate related fellowships nominations. The graduate awards will come later. Wright is working to streamline the website. If you have any questions about this, please feel free to reach out to her first as Wright is very busy right now.

    Dr. Ellis agreed to attend one of GSA’s meetings early in the Spring semester to speak on the most relevant current Graduate Student awards that will take place later in the year.
