Who should attend: Professionals who have already completed the Children’s Law Center’s Recognizing and Reporting Child Abuse and Neglect Training (Mandated Reporter Training) and would like to gain further knowledge related to mandated reporting.

Overview: This training includes a review on the role and responsibilities of the mandated reporter, an overview of long-term consequences of child abuse and neglect, and an update of recent legislative changes to the statutes that govern mandated reporting. This training will also introduce a new Children’s Law Center publication regarding frequently asked questions, and participants will work through an advanced reporting scenario exercise. This two-hour course is designed for individuals who have already attended the Children’s Law Center’s Mandated Reporter Training or Training of Trainers session. The purpose of this training is to enhance participants’ existing knowledge on the topic of mandated reporting.

Fee: There is no charge for this training.
