The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities or decisions for qualified persons on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, genetics, sexual orientation or veteran status. Learn more

The MHR recruiting team is available to answer any questions you have about the MHR curriculum, the admissions process, student life and more. Apply now or learn more at moore.sc.edu/mhr.

Contact Sally Fulkert
MHR Managing Director
Sally.Fulkert@moore.sc.edu
803-777-1244

MHR graduates are considered top candidates and are frequently hired by industry-leading companies after graduation.

One of the many program perks is the support MHR students receive from the Moore School's Office of Career Management (OCM). The OCM team plays an active role in helping students secure internships and maintains strong ties with companies.

MHR students have the opportunity to participate in numerous professional development workshops including:

• Personal Branding
• Networking
• Emotional Intelligence
• Diversity and Inclusion
• Communication Training
• Resume and Interview Building
• Chief Human Resource Officers (CHRO) Speaker Series

Great jobs, even greater careers

The USC Master of Human Resources program equips its students with fundamental HR expertise, a strategic mindset, and exposure to companies who find real value in the HR function.

—Devin Parrish '16, PepsiCo

Recent employers of MHR students include:

In 2017 98% of MHR graduates were placed within 90 days of graduation.

Median starting salary for 2017 grads was $81,500.

START YOUR HR CAREER TODAY

moore.sc.edu/mhr
#MooreSchool
The MHR Program at USC

- Emphasis on the strategic role of HR
- Emphasis on building business leaders
- Dedicated, world-class faculty experts
- Dedicated to training professionals to create inclusive environments
- Professional internship for 100% of students
- High placement rates with median salary of $81,500
- Opportunities for international business immersion
- Merit-based scholarships and in-state tuition rates available for qualified students
- Strong partnerships with Fortune 500 companies

"The MHR program has dramatically expanded my professional skill set and network to the point where I am prepared for career opportunities that would not have been possible just a little over a year ago."

—Robert Devane, ’17
Great jobs, even greater careers

• MHR graduates are considered top candidates and are frequently hired by industry-leading companies after graduation.

• One of the many program perks is the support MHR students receive from the Moore School’s Office of Career Management (OCM). The OCM team plays an active role in helping students secure internships and maintains strong ties with companies.

• MHR students have the opportunity to participate in numerous professional development workshops including:
  - Personal Branding
  - Networking
  - Emotional Intelligence
  - Diversity and Inclusion
  - Communication Training
  - Resume and Interview Building
  - Chief Human Resource Officers (CHRO) Speaker Series

Recent employers of MHR students include:

BMW  Bridgestone  General Electric
TIAA  Boeing  Synchrony
Shell  CH2M  HILL
Global Financial

Eastman Chemical Company  Hewlett-Packard
ExxonMobil Corporation  Microsoft
Halliburton Company  Nestle
Ingersoll Rand Inc.

PepsiCo  Honeywell  Eaton
International Paper

“The USC Master of Human Resources program equips its students with fundamental HR expertise, a strategic mindset, and exposure to companies who find real value in the HR function.”

—Devin Parrish ‘16, PepsiCo
The Moore School is known for the strength of its HR faculty. Professors who teach MHR classes are globally recognized as thought leaders in their fields. Faculty members have years of professional experience in addition to their academic credentials. But our faculty are also distinguished by their approachability and their commitment to working with students — in the classroom and beyond.

"My goal is that students leave class with not only an in-depth knowledge of evidence-supported practices (the "why"), but also an understanding of how the practices have been and can be applied in organizations (the "how")."

—Dr. Nichelle Carpenter
Assistant Professor
Department of Management

The Riegel & Emory Advisory Board

Through the Moore School’s Riegel & Emory Human Resources Advisory Board, MHR students have unique opportunities to interact with HR leaders from many industry sectors. In support of the Moore School and its students, board members regularly:

- Network with students and faculty in the classroom and beyond
- Provide input on curriculum with professional trends and issues to keep students up-to-date and relevant
- Collaborate on research projects
- Offer internships
- Fund scholarships
- Hire MHR graduates
LEADING ACTION

A company’s greatest asset is its staff. Identifying, developing and placing people in the right place at the right time is how organizations differentiate themselves in today’s business environment of rapid technological change and global competition. At the Moore School, you will not only be trained to become an HR professional but a future leader who drives business success.

Start your journey to HR leadership today!

APPLICANTS SHOULD SUBMIT:

- Completed online application
- Official transcripts of undergraduate coursework
- GRE or GMAT scores
- Two letters of recommendation

An admissions interview is also required.

Students with any undergraduate major are eligible for admission to the MHR program. Work experience is desirable but not required.

FUNDING YOUR MHR DEGREE

The MHR program offers merit-based financial awards to well-qualified applicants. These include:

- Individual fellowship awards
- In-state tuition scholarships
- Graduate assistantships

Are you ready to become an HR leader?

Apply now or learn more at moore.sc.edu/mhr
Contact Sally Fulkert
MHR Managing Director
Sally.Fulkert@moore.sc.edu
803-777-1244

“Enrolling in the program as a Juris Doctorate and Master of Human Resources candidate, the scholarships afforded me the opportunity to pursue two degrees at one time in an economical and stress-free way.”

—Valerie Lawrence, ’17
START YOUR HR CAREER TODAY

Learn more
The MHR recruiting team is available to answer any questions you have about the MHR curriculum, the admissions process, student life and more.

Apply now or learn more at moore.sc.edu/mhr.
Contact Sally Fulkert
MHR Managing Director
Sally.Fulkert@moore.sc.edu
803-777-1244

The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities or decisions for qualified persons on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, genetics, sexual orientation or veteran status.