Here is what our fellows have said about the program:

"Cockcroft has expanded my horizons and provided me with new found knowledge and skills but the greatest take away is my new professional network of colleagues and friends."
- Thayer McGee, PhD, RN, Class of 2015-2016
Dean, University of South Carolina Aiken

"One valuable tool I have learned is to ask more questions versus making declarative statements while trying to resolve conflicts."
- Mary Tanner, RN, MBA, CPHQ, Class of 2015-2016
Clinical Outcomes & Systems Improvement Manager
Lexington Medical Center in the Center for Best Practice

"As a Cockcroft Fellow, I developed leadership and political skills that prepared me to impact healthcare and higher education in positive, meaningful ways. In addition, I am now confident to negotiate in complex systems effectively."
- Sharon F. Beasley, PhD, RN - CNE, Class of 2007-2008
Associate Director
Accreditation Commission for Education in Nursing, Atlanta, GA

"Becoming a Cockcroft Fellow was an important turning point in my leadership journey. I discovered the importance of self-awareness. Understanding one's strengths and opportunities makes all the difference in the ability to successfully lead others."
- Carolyn Swinton, MN, RN, NEA-BC, FACHE, Class of 2003-2004
Chief Nursing Officer
Palmetto Health, Columbia, SC

"As a nurse entrepreneur, I credit Cockcroft for providing me the tools, techniques and coaching to facilitate my profession growth and development as a leader. One word to describe my experience is TRANSFORMING!"
- Loretta Manning, MSN, RN, GNP, Class of 2003-2004
President, I CAN Publishing, Inc., Duluth, GA

"More than twenty years after completing the program, I continue to draw on the knowledge and leadership lessons learned during my fellowship year. It was an invaluable and memorable experience."
- Janis P. Bellack, PhD, RN, FAAN, Class of 1995-1996
President and John Hilton Knowles Professor
MGH Institute of Health Professions, Boston MA

THE AMY V. COCKCROFT NURSING LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM IS ONE OF THE FIRST OF ITS KIND IN THE NATION. Established in 1994 by Amy V. Cockcroft, the founding dean of the College of Nursing at the University of South Carolina, the program has evolved to prepare nurse executive leaders to meet the increasingly urgent demands of today’s health care organizations. This progressive leadership program will advance a leader’s ability to lead and navigate complex organizations and work effectively with interdisciplinary teams.

ADVANCE YOUR LEADERSHIP

The Amy V. Cockcroft Nursing Leadership Development Program will provide you with proven skills, strategies, and techniques for success as a healthcare leader. This visionary program provides a critical foundation for leading through periods of change, building partnerships and circles of influence, and forging collaborations. The program will help you develop competencies in organizational communications, applying systems concepts, resolving and negotiating conflict, and developing alternative models of leading, managing, and following in lateral versus hierarchical systems. Individual and group coaching throughout the program will prepare you for the challenges, opportunities, and responsibilities of advanced leadership positions in practice and academia.

During the program participants will:

- Expand your boundaries of leadership through self-awareness, circles of influence and visionary strategic thinking.
- Leverage your work at a higher level using system thinking concepts with highly effective organizational and personal communications.
- Resolve and negotiate conflicts with mastered communication skills and self-reflection.
- Challenge traditional linear thinking to successfully lead in today’s global, complex, and evolving healthcare environment.
- Plan and implement an interdisciplinary project that illustrates application of acquired leadership and supports the recommendations of the IOM Report on the Future of Nursing.

PROGRAM FORMAT

The yearlong program includes five intensive, three-day sessions held in Columbia, S.C. The faculty members are nationally known leaders in nursing, health care, and public policy. Individual and group coaching throughout the program will prepare you for the challenges, opportunities, and responsibilities of advanced leadership positions in practice, academia at the local, state and national levels.
